IMPORTANT RISK INFORMATION Investment Professional Use Only.

Bonds generally present less short-term risk and volatility than stocks, but contain interest rate risk (as interest rates raise, bond prices usually fall); issuer default risk; issuer credit risk; liquidity risk; and inflation risk. These effects are usually pronounced for longer-term securities. Any fixed income security sold or redeemed prior to maturity may be subject to a substantial gain or loss.

Equity securities may fluctuate in value and can decline significantly in response to the activities of individual companies and general market and economic conditions

ETFs trade like stocks, fluctuate in market value and may trade at prices above or below the ETFs' net asset value. Brokerage commissions and ETF expenses will reduce returns.

A passively managed

ETF invests by sampling an index and holding a range of securities that, in the aggregate, approximates the full index in terms of key risk factors and other characteristics. This may cause it to experience tracking errors relative to performance of the index. Actively managed ETFs do not seek to replicate the performance of a specific index and may underperform its benchmark. For details on the investment strategy of a specific ETF, please refer to its prospectus.

Because of their narrow focus, sector investing tends to be more volatile than investments that diversify across many sectors and companies.
