## This is the actual tracking difference of the last calendar year. Investors should refer to the Greater China ETF’s website for more up-to-date information on actual tracking difference.

What is this product?

The SPDR® FTSE® Greater China ETF (“Greater China ETF”) is a sub-fund of the SPDR® ETFs, which is an umbrella unit trust established under Hong Kong law. The Units of the Greater China ETF are listed on The Stock Exchange of Hong Kong Limited (“SEHK”). These units are traded on SEHK like listed stocks.

Objective and Investment Strategy

Objective

The Greater China ETF’s investment objective is to provide investment returns, before fees and expenses, that closely correspond to the performance of the FTSE® Greater China HKD Index

<sup>1</sup> The above website has not been reviewed by the SFC and the webpages linked to this website may contain information relating to investment funds which are not authorized by the SFC.

<sup>2</sup> Such internal delegation will only be effective as of 9 October 2020, and will only be implemented as part of the Manager’s business continuity plan.

(“Underlying Index”).

The Greater China ETF also invests in securities designated as A shares listed on the the Shanghai Stock Exchange and the Shenzhen Stock Exchange through the Shanghai-Hong Kong Stock Connect and the Shenzhen-Hong Kong Stock Connect.

Strategy

The Manager intends to primarily adopt a replication strategy to track the performance of the Underlying Index by directly investing in substantially all the securities constituting the Underlying Index in substantially the same weightings (i.e. proportions) as these securities have in the Underlying Index (“Index Securities”). If there is any significant deviation between the Greater China ETF’s portfolio and the composition and weighting of the Underlying Index, the Manager will adjust the Greater China ETF’s portfolio when it considers appropriate, after considering transaction costs and the impact, if any, on the market (“Adjustments”). However, it may not always be efficient to replicate identically the Underlying Index and minor misweightings are likely to occur. In addition, laws and regulations may require or restrict the Manager from effecting certain Adjustments.

Where the adoption of a full-replication strategy is not efficient or practicable or otherwise at the Manager’s absolute discretion, the Manager may pursue a representative sampling strategy and hold a representative sample of the Index Securities selected by the Manager using quantitative analytical models to derive a portfolio sample. Investors should note that the Manager may swap between the above strategies without prior notice to investors and in its absolute discretion.

Underlying Index

The Underlying Index was launched on 24 May 2010, comprising of stocks listed in Hong Kong, Taiwan, Shanghai (A shares and B shares), Shenzhen (A shares and B shares) and Singapore, providing coverage for the Greater China Region. As at 29 May 2020, the Underlying Index had a net market capitalisation of HKD 19.78 trillion and comprises 1149 large and mid cap stocks, being primarily stocks listed in Hong Kong, Taiwan and China.

For details of the latest list of constituents of the Underlying Index, together with their respective weightings, please refer to the Manager’s website at <https://www.ssga.com/hk/en/individual/etfs/funds/spdr-ftse-greater-china-etf-3073><sup>1</sup>.

For additional details, please refer to the Underlying Index’s website at www.ftse.com.

Use of derivatives / investment in derivatives

The Greater China ETF’s net derivative exposure may be up to 50% of the fund’s net asset value.

What are the key risks?

Investment involves risks. Please refer to the Prospectus for details including the risk factors.

1 Investment risk

- The Greater China ETF is an investment fund. There is no guarantee of the repayment of principal. Therefore your investment in the fund may suffer losses.

2 Emerging market risk

- The Greater China ETF invests a significant portion of its assets in stocks with heavy exposure to China, which involve a greater risk of loss than investing in more developed markets due to, among other factors, greater political, tax, economic, foreign exchange, liquidity and regulatory risks.

- The concentration of investments in China may result in greater volatility and less liquidity. Investment in these markets involve higher transaction and custody costs.

3 Passive investments

- The Greater China ETF is not “actively managed”, therefore when there is a decline in the Underlying Index, the Greater China ETF will also decrease in value.
- The Manager will not adopt any temporary defensive position against any market downturn. Investors may lose part or all of their investment.

4 Trading risk

- Generally, retail investors can only buy or sell Units on SEHK. The trading prices of the Units on SEHK are driven by market factors such as demand and supply of the Units. Therefore, the Units may trade at a substantial premium/discount to its Net Asset Value.

5 Tracking error risk

- Due to fees and expenses of the Greater China ETF, liquidity of the market and different investment strategy adopted by the Manager, the Greater China ETF’s return may deviate from that of the Underlying Index.

6 Termination risks

- If the Index Provider terminates the Underlying Index or does not allow the Greater China ETF to use the Underlying Index, and there is no successor index or if its fund size falls below HK$250 million, the Greater China ETF may be terminated.

7 Dividend distributions

- Dividend distributions are not guaranteed, and therefore, investors may not receive any dividends from the Greater China ETF.

8 Reliance on Market Makers

- Although the Manager will use its best endeavours to put in place arrangements so that at least one market maker will maintain a market for the Units of the Greater China ETF, liquidity in the market for the Units may be adversely affected if there is no market maker for the Units of the Greater China ETF. The Manager will seek to mitigate this risk by ensuring at least one market maker for the Units of the Greater China ETF gives not less than 3 months’ notice prior to termination of the market making arrangement. The Manager may also procure more than one market maker for the Greater China ETF or secure appropriate arrangements for an alternative market maker to readily step in with short notice in the event of cessation, disruption or suspension of market making activities of the last market maker. However, it is possible that there is only one market maker to the Greater China ETF, or the Manager may not be able to engage in a substitute market maker within the termination notice period of a market maker. There is also no guarantee that any market making activity will be effective.

How has the fund performed?

- The Underlying Index of the Greater China ETF is FTSE® Greater China HKD Index.
- Past performance information is not indicative of future performance. Investors may not get back the full amount invested.
- The computation basis of the performance of the Greater China ETF and Underlying Index is based on the calendar year end, NAV-To-NAV, with dividend reinvested.
- These figures show by how much the Greater China ETF increased or decreased in value during the calendar year being shown. Performance data has been calculated in Hong Kong Dollars including ongoing charges and excluding your trading costs on SEHK.
- Where no past performance is shown there was insufficient data available in that year to provide performance.
- Fund launch date: 2010

Is there any guarantee?

Like most funds, the Greater China ETF does not have any guarantees. You may not get back the amount of money you invest.
