INTRODUCTION

The State Street Ireland Unit Trust (the “Fund”) is authorised in Ireland by the Central Bank of Ireland (the “Central Bank”). The Fund is structured as an umbrella fund in that it may be divided into different Classes of units (“Units”) with one or more Classes representing a separate sub-fund of the Fund. The establishment of new sub-funds is subject to the prior approval of the Central Bank.

This Supplement contains information relating to the Units of the State Street IUT World Developed Equity Index Fund (the “Sub-Fund”) to be issued in accordance with the Prospectus and this Supplement. This Supplement forms part of and should be read in the context of and together with the general description of the Fund contained in the current Prospectus together with the most recent audited annual report and accounts and, if published after such report (or if the first such report has not been issued), a copy of the latest unaudited semi-annual report. Details of the other Sub-Funds are available from the Investment Manager upon request.

At the date of this Supplement, separate Classes of Units in the Sub-Fund have been created. Further Classes of Units may be created in the future, in accordance with the requirements of the Central Bank.

INVESTMENT OBJECTIVE AND POLICY

The investment objective of the Sub-Fund is to seek to track, as closely as reasonably practicable, the performance of the FTSE All-World Developed Equity Index (adjusted for irrecoverable dividend withholding tax) (the “Index”) on a rolling three year basis.

As at the date of this Supplement, the Index is a broad-based benchmark designed to help investors benchmark their international investments. The Index comprises large and mid-cap stocks providing coverage of the developed markets internationally. The Index is a sub-set of the FTSE Global Equity Index Series (GEIS), which covers 98% of the world's investable market capitalisation. The Index comprises large and mid-cap stocks providing coverage of developed markets. Further information in respect of the Index is available upon request from the Investment Manager.

In order to gain exposure to the Index, the Sub-Fund normally invests on a fund of fund basis in other collective investment schemes, each of which seeks to track one or more components of the Index. The components of the indices in which the underlying funds invest are similar to the components of the Index thereby allowing the Sub-Fund to continue to track the Index.

The collective investment schemes in which the Sub-Fund will invest will seek to achieve this objective by using either a replication strategy, an optimisation strategy or a stratified sampling strategy to obtain the assets listed in the “Permitted Investments” section below, as determined from time to time to be the most appropriate strategy for those underlying collective investment schemes so that they may seek to achieve their investment objective. The underlying collective investment schemes will invest up to 100% in one of the strategies at any one time and the appropriate strategy will be determined to be that which allows the underlying collective investment schemes to track the Index' performance. The following is a summary description of each of the strategies:

- Replication Strategy – this strategy seeks to hold all of the securities of the Index, with the approximate weightings as in the Index.

- Optimisation Strategy – this strategy uses a sophisticated computer modelling technique to find a representative sample of those securities that mimic the broad characteristics of the index tracked. This strategy is used when the Index is too broad to replicate (i.e. the Index contains too many securities to efficiently purchase) and/or the securities included in the Index are difficult to purchase in the open markets. Consequently, when the underlying collective investment schemes use this strategy, they may typically hold only a subset of the securities included in the Index.

- Stratified Sampling Strategy - this strategy divides an index into different "cells" that represent different characteristics of the index and investments are then chosen that mimic those cells. This strategy is used when the Index is too broad to replicate (i.e. the Index contains too many securities to efficiently purchase) and/or the securities included in the Index are difficult to purchase in the open markets. Consequently, when the underlying collective investment schemes use this strategy, they may typically hold only a subset of the securities included in the Index.

Changes to the composition and/or weighting of the securities constituting the Index will ordinarily require the Sub-Fund to make corresponding adjustments or rebalancings to its investments in order to seek to track the Index. The Investment Manager will accordingly seek to rebalance the composition and/or weighting of the securities held by the Sub-Fund from time to time to the extent practicable and possible to conform to changes in the composition and/or weighting of the Index. The Sub-Fund may also, on occasion, hold securities which are not comprised in its Index (as set out in the “Permitted Investments” section below) where the Investment Manager believes this to be appropriate in light of the investment objective and investment restrictions of the Sub-Fund, or other factors, for example where securities are likely to become components of the Index in the near future. Other rebalancing measures may be taken from time to time to seek to maintain the correspondence between the performance of the Sub-Fund and the performance of the Index.

The Sub-Fund’s return may not match the return of the Index for a number of reasons. For example, there may be differences between withholding tax rates applicable to the Sub-Fund or collective investment schemes it invests in compared to those used by the Index. In addition, the return on the securities and other investments selected by the Investment Manager may not precisely match the return on the Index due to misweights and the substitution of securities or because the Index provider makes an error in the calculation of the Index which is not subsequently corrected or because the Index provider makes an error in the calculation of the Index which is incorporated into the Sub-Fund and the Index provider then restates the Index. The Sub-Fund incurs a number of operating expenses not applicable to the Index, and incurs costs in buying and selling securities. The Sub-Fund may not be fully invested at times, as a result of cash flows into or out of the Sub-Fund. The return on the sample of securities purchased by the Investment Manager or the underlying collective investment schemes, or permitted derivative positions taken by the underlying collective investment schemes, to approximate the performance of the Index may not correlate precisely with the return on the Index.

PERMITTED INVESTMENTS

The Sub-Fund may invest in:

1. Equities traded on a Recognised Stock Exchange which allow the Investment Manager to track the performance and maintain the characteristics of the Index. This includes securities which form part of, or in the opinion of the Investment Manager from time to time, are likely to become part of the Index (“Index Instruments”) or securities acquired through corporate activity which may not form part of the Index and securities which are issued and traded on markets outside the principal market for the Index Instruments, if and when the issue of such security is likely to be merged with an issuer of any Index Instrument (as listed below) not in the Index which allow the Investment Manager to seek to track the risk and return characteristics of the Index;

2. Up to 75% of its Net Asset Value in the State Street IUT North America Equity Index Fund, another sub-fund of the Fund. The supplement for the State Street IUT North America Equity Index Fund is appended to this Supplement;
3. Other Sub-Funds of the Fund;
4. Units in collective investment schemes which may be regulated/unregulated and domiciled anywhere (where the Sub-Fund invests in unregulated collective investment schemes, these will be open-ended or closed-ended and unlevered) including exchange traded funds, provided the collective investment schemes predominantly invest in Index Instruments and/or cash or cash equivalents;
5. Cash, deposits and money market funds;
6. Partly paid Index Instruments; and
7. American depository receipts and global depository receipts.
